

Environmental Policy

Considering the environment to be a vital and strategic factor when engaging in and developing company activities, Recarlo Spa has adopted an Environmental Policy designed to identify the environmental issues caused by its activities and seize any opportunities for improvement that emerge in the future.

Thus, the company's action is aimed at not only meeting customer demands and legislative and regulatory requirements, but also environmental protection needs, through a constructive approach to environmental issues.

With this in mind, it pledges to:

- Train and authorize personnel to identify and reduce the environmental impact of company activities, at every level promoting a widespread sense of responsibility to the environment, including by developing the events management service;
- Manage all company activities in accordance with national and international laws and regulations and other provisions to which it subscribes, and to monitor this compliance;
- Prevent pollution through business management, and plan and implement any changes or new activities with consideration for the various environmental sectors and the local situation;
- Ensure continuous improvement of environmental services, defining appropriate methods of measurement for their systematic evaluation;
- Replace and/or improve company equipment to create less environmental impact;
- Optimize the use of natural resources through rational and efficient use of energy resources and materials, by controlling consumption;

- Make its suppliers aware of its environmental policy and include environmental factors as one of its criteria for evaluating suppliers;
- Communicate with customers, suppliers and institutions to increase their awareness of environmental management.
